

Partner directory product and services expansion guide

We updated the products and services listed on the Amazon Ads partner directory, expanding to 12 product and 38 service line items. Here are the main things you need to know:

We now support all current Amazon Ads products

Ranging across Amazon Ad Products, Brand Shopping Experiences, and Ad Tech.

Services are now split into five main categories

They are: media planning and buying, retail, creative and brand experience, measurement, and other.

More options for creative and measurement services

The previous “creative and brand experience,” and “measurement and attribution” listings have expanded into categories.

Refining existing items

For instance, “campaign management” is now “campaign management and optimization.”

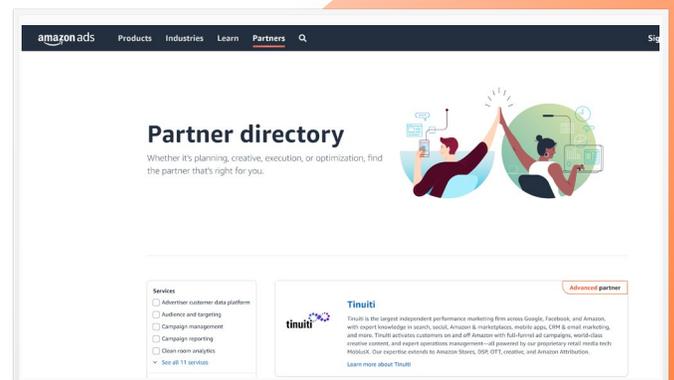

Adding new services within original categories

For example, “campaign monitoring” will be added under the “media planning & buying” category.

What is the Amazon Ads partner directory?

Frequently Asked Questions

Why should I use a partner?

Working with an Amazon Ads partner can help your grow your business on Amazon's store and through Amazon Ads.

How do I find a partner using partner directory?

We recommend using the filters on the side navigation on the partner directory page. Currently, you can filter by "product," "service," "minimum monthly spend," "marketplace," and "office location" criteria.

If I like a partner, how do I move forward?

Once you identify a partner on the partner directory, click their listing to see their profile. There you will find a detailed description of their company, their services, general pricing, a contact button, and a link to their website. We recommend reaching out to the partner for more information.

What is an advanced or verified partner?

Partners who have a verified or advance partner badge on their partner directory listing are those who have achieved the requirements needed to earn that status level. We award partner status based on demonstrated expertise, engagement with Amazon Ads, and delivered growth for advertisers.
