

Default transit time for domestic sellers

Amazon sets the default transit time for new shipping templates, as shown in the table below. The default transit time is the setting that is automatically populated when you create a new template.

Ships from	Destination	Default Transit Time	Available Transit Time Options
Singapore	Singapore	1-3 days	1-3 days

If you ship from outside the Singapore, click here to view the international transit time policies.

Seller Delivery Policy

We require sellers to offer Standard Delivery to all addresses in Singapore for the same delivery fee. Failure to comply with this policy may result in action being taken against your selling account. The following actions are examples of seller behaviour that are not permitted given this policy:

- Using product description bullet points to refuse delivery to certain regions or to request additional delivery fees
- Using product description bullet points to request that customers in certain regions choose 'express delivery' in order to collect additional delivery fees
- Contacting customers to request additional delivery fees.
