Most Hollywood movies are produced in 4K Ultra HD but delivered to consumers as HD or lower resolution content. With the new generation of 4K Ultra HDTVs now on the market, the challenge is to transform this legacy content into enhanced 4K digital entertainment experience for the living room.

Together with Technicolor and Marseille Networks, Seiki introduces a new category of active HDMI accessories featuring state-of-the-art video processing and 4K up-conversion performance comparable to native 4K quality.
